

Social Actions & Leadership School for Activists (SALSA)
presents

The Shining Black Prince

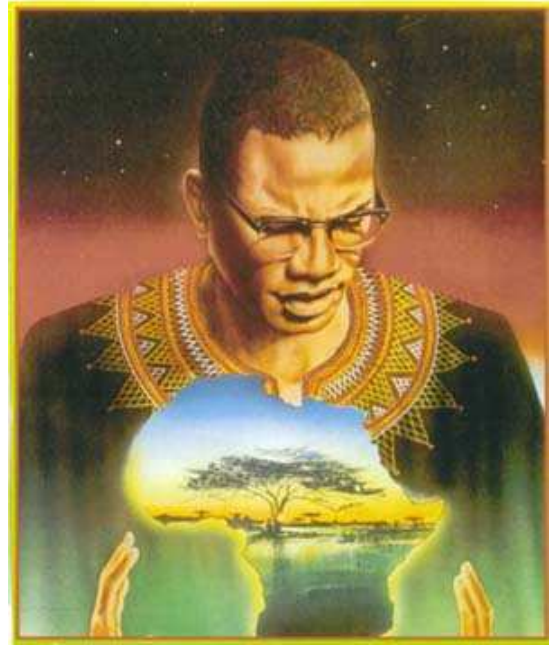

A presentation and discussion on El-Hajj Malik El Shabazz

Thursday, May 17, 2007

6:45-8:45pm FREE!

1112 16th St NW, Suite 600
Washington DC, 20036

May 19th, 2007 will mark the 82nd birthday of Malcolm X, a.k.a. El-Hajj Malik El-Shabazz. Because of commercial media's sanitized depictions of Malcolm X, he is portrayed in a way that removes the most vital elements of his ethics, political vision, and philosophical insights. Join SALSA as we shed a truly revealing light on this monumental figure. Lead by Dr. Jared Ball, this forum will be a multi-media and interactive examination into aspects of the life, legacy and philosophy of Malcolm that is rarely experienced. With a particular focus on his contributions to Pan-Africanism, there will also be dialogue on what lessons Malcolm's legacy offers the world today. To say this forum will be provocative is an understatement. Join us.

Dr. Jared Ball is a professor of African American and Media Studies at the University of Maryland at College Park and Frostburg State University. He is managing editor of the first hip-hop academic journal from Words, Beats and Life and hosts the Wednesday morning show on WPFW 89.3 FM in Washington, DC. Dr. Ball is also the founder and creator of FreeMix Radio: The Original Mixtape Radio Show, a rap music mixtape committed to the practice of underground emancipatory journalism. He and his work can be found online at VOXUNION.COM.

This event is free and open to the public.

Because space is limited pre-registration is strongly suggested. Register by calling IPS at 202-234-9382 x 229 or visit www.HotSalsa.org